

Determination is a question of the right team.

Trainee Lawyers (m/f) and Research Assistants (m/f) in IP, competition and media law in Cologne

The globalisation of the markets has ever more increased the importance of an effective defence and administration of industrial property and the defence of a competitive position against unfair practices.

JONAS Rechtsanwaltsgesellschaft mbH and its team of legal specialists assist leading companies in the design, defence and administration of their industrial property – having a special focus on trademark law. Other focuses are competition, media and procedural law.

You are at the beginning of your career and have a keen interest in economic facts with a special emphasis placed on industrial property and media law.

You have proved your legal skills with excellent achievements in the degree courses and you graduated with distinction. It goes without saying that you are fluent in both spoken and written German. You stand out due to your entrepreneurial attitude, poise, commitment and flexibility.

We offer you a challenging activity in the key areas of the protection of industrial property. You will work together with a young and motivated team in the best working atmosphere and you will enjoy first-class training.

If you are interested in a placement as a trainee lawyer (m/f) or work experience as a research assistant (m/f) in a highly specialized German law firm we look forward to receiving your application.
